Press Release

Albanese government to provide $6.1 mil to Sri Om foundation for Aged Care

Date: 16th May 2022.

Indians who came to Australia during 1970 and 80's are now retired but can not find an appropriate aged care facility either in Sydney or Melbourne.

An Albanese government will provide a sum of 6.1 million dollars to Sri Om foundation to make a real difference in the lives of South Asian Seniors, making aged care feel less like a facility and more like their own home.

An announcement to this effect was made by Andrew Charlton, Labor candidate for Parramatta today.

Hindu Council of Australia thanks Labor party led by Mr Anthony Albanese for his promise to provide the much needed support. Culturally appropriate aged care for the benefit of Indian and Hindu seniors in Australia will fill a dire need of the community.
